1869

Data extracted principally from "Marine Intelligence" columns of the New York Times with supplementary data from New York Tribune.

* Could not find departure from Aspinwall or arrival at NY; this is an odd one; perhaps a charter?

† Where a vessel departed Aspinwall on the same day as a vessel that arrived at Panama, the assumption was taken that insufficient time was available for the mail to be offloaded, sorted, postmarked with the Panama transit mark, bagged for New York, transferred across the Isthmus and loaded on board the departing steamer. In these instances, it has been assumed that the mail was carried by the next departing vessel. These instances are arrivals at Panama on 4 May 1867, 5 December 1868 and 5 January 1868. There is one example arriving on 5 January 1868 that arrived in New York on 22 January, thus verifying this approach.
